

To complain of the age we live in, to murmur at the present possessors of power, to lament the past, to conceive extravagant hopes of the future, are the common dispositions of the greatest part of mankind.

—Edmund Burke

When you see Dr. Emmett Thompson getting around town at an accelerated gait you know the time is drawing near for Kiwanis club's annual minstrel benefit for the Hope Youth Center. I told Emmett I knew he was working on the script but from his maneuvers around town I couldn't figure out whether he was testing his own jokes or bartering for other folks' material. Emmett said some folks believe it or not, imagined their own jokes were new; but he's not buying 'em. The doc says he has a file of 5,000 minstrel items and will stand pat on what he's got.

Every so often this writer discusses the newsprint business, not because of any bearing it may have on this particular newspaper, but because there is a chronic shortage of white paper production on the North American continent and our section of the South is ideally equipped with natural resources to support new paper mills.

This is the No. 1 industrial opportunity before our people, and anything concerning it is news.

The general situation is this:

The American Newspaper Publishers association reports that in 1951 U. S. newspapers alone used 5 million tons, and total consumption by all publishing houses was 6 million tons. During 1951 Canada produced 5 1/2 million tons and the U. S. 1 million, a total of 6 1/2 million. A considerable amount of Canadian production, of course, was diverted from our trade channels by commitments within the British empire. What looks like a surplus of half a million tons is, therefore, a decided deficit, and today's crisis has had to be met by a mad scramble for foreign newsprint, principally from Finland, Sweden and Norway. The Star has some of that foreign print in its own house and expects another shipment this week, supplementing the restricted tonnage we are allowed by our contract mill at Lufkin, Texas.

Not only is there a continuing shortage today but the ANPA estimates that total U. S. demand, now 6 million tons, will rise to 6 3/4 million by 1955. No such production capacity now exists on the North American continent, nor does there seem much prospect of Canadian expansion to meet that volume demand.

A Montreal spokesman for the Canadian newsprint industry is quoted in a Southern Newspaper Publishers association bulletin as saying:

"There has to be a price increase. Newsprint production is well below world demand; but it is risky to build new mills because the margin of profit is too slim. The price of newsprint has roughly doubled since 1934. But the cost of building a paper mill has almost quadrupled. It now costs about $75,000 per ton of daily production — or about 7 1/2 millions for a mill turning out 100 tons a day. Until the price of newsprint reaches $135 a ton, in the U. S., there aren't likely to be many new mills established in Canada."

To understand what the Canadian is saying I should explain that the current U. S. delivered contract price is $116 New York ($120 Hope). What he's demanding is an increase from $116 to $135 at New York, an advance everywhere of $19 a ton. That would kick the Hope price from $120 to $139. And yet on at least 15 per cent of our consumption this year we will be paying foreign mills approximately $225 a ton delivered.

There would be profit to Arkansas newspapers in conceding some compromise on the U. S. contract price level. It would guarantee establishment of new mills — especially if one or more of them were placed in our own area.

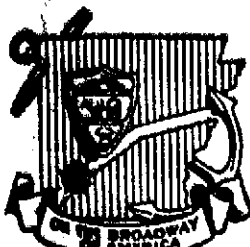

Our disadvantage would be present mill construction costs. The Canadian's figures show that a mill of 100,000 tons a year capacity can be built in Canada for around 25 million dollars. But the Coosa Pines mill in Alabama, erected a couple of years ago, cost 22 millions; and the British Bowater interests who are beginning construction just east of Chattanooga, Tenn., estimate their cost at around 42 millions. All these figures are for 100,000-ton mills and constitute a fair comparison between U. S. and Canadian construction costs.

On the favorable side we have these factors: Southern pine is faster growing and cheaper than the Canadian raw material, North American spruce; and for much of the American market a Southern U. S. mill would hold a substantial

Chinese About Face, Insist on No Blockade

Panmunjom, Korea, March 13. (UP)—The Communists, in an abrupt about face, insisted anew today on a Korean armistice broad enough in scope to outlaw a possible American blockade of China or Formosa.

The new attitude on the part of the Red truce negotiators came to light during an interpreters' session—the lowest level of the negotiations.

Communist interpreters working over an agreement tentatively reached on truce supervision repudiated an earlier assurance that they would drop all attempts to stretch the scope of the armistice. They had originally opposed including the word "Korea" in a paragraph prohibiting a naval blockade of the war torn Peninsula. Such a deletion would have had the effect of extending a blockade ban to the coasts of China or Formosa, if desired by either party.

The interpreters earlier had introduced a proposal to delete the word "Korea," but yesterday, they withdrew the proposal and indicated their willingness to have the word reinstated in the paragraph dealing with naval blockades.

However, the interpreters said today they could not include "Korea" in the final phrasing of the paragraph. They said they had been instructed that the matter should be turned back to staff officers.

Gen. William P. Nuccio, an Allied spokesman, said the Communist announcement was a "complete reversal of the staff officers' discussion yesterday."

"It came as a complete surprise to the United Nations," he added.

Earlier, United Nations truce negotiators demanded that the Communists turn over a new, "complete and bona fide" list of Allied war prisoners.

Seeking an accounting of 53,000 missing U. S. soldiers known to have been captured by the Reds, Rear Admiral R. E. Libby said an accurate list was needed if prisoner exchange discussions were to have any "definite and concrete meaning."

Libby bluntly charged the Reds with trying to recover 132,000 prisoners held by the U.N. in return for only 11,500 Allied prisoners admittedly held by the Communists.

North Korean negotiator Maj. Gen. Lee Sang Cho replied that the U.N. was displaying a "negative attitude."

Although there was no progress reported in either the prisoner exchange or truce supervision discussions, Allied officers said the Communists continued to show a desire

Taft Backers Rally in Wisconsin

Washington, March 12 (UP)—Disappointed Taft supporters sounded an "on to Wisconsin" rallying cry today. They claimed that their candidate is still the front runner in the race for the Republican presidential nomination.

But Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, a political backer, tremendously encouraged by their victory in New Hampshire, took toward New Jersey for a repeat performance.

The New Jersey primary April 15 will provide the next, and probably last, direct test between Eisenhower and Sen. Robert A. Taft. Before that contest, however, Taft will have two chances, in his native Midwest, to repair the damage which his vote-pulling reputation suffered in New Hampshire Tuesday.

The Taft organization is optimistic about the Ohio senator's prospects for a dramatic comeback in the Wisconsin primary April 1 and in the Illinois primary April 8.

Body of Arkansan Is Recovered

Lake Charles, La., March 12 (AP)—The body of a 34-year-old Arkansan killed in a large explosion here has been found.

E. A. Seroy of Lake Village, Ark., was injured fatally in the blast last January. He was an employee of the Greenville Towing Company.

Harold K. Stassen, who ran third in the New Hampshire race, will be pitted against Taft in both of the Midwestern battles.

Eisenhower is not entered in New Hampshire, will invade Wisconsin next week for two weeks of intensive campaigning. He was in El Paso today, winning up a whirlwind speaking tour of Texas.

While unhappy about the Eisenhower sweep in New Hampshire, the Taft camp insisted that its candidate was still out in front.

This view was shared by Sen. George D. Aiken (R-Vt.), who has not yet endorsed a candidate for the Republican nomination. He told a reporter that "Taft still has a substantial lead."

Aiken has said previously that Eisenhower cannot possibly win the GOP nomination unless he returns from Europe to campaign.

Planners Ask Every Dime of Foreign Aid

Washington, March 12 (AP)—The administration's top foreign strategists called on Congress today to vote every dollar of President Truman's $7,000,000,000 foreign aid program.

Four first line global planners went before a joint Senate-House committee to open their uphill fight for foreign aid funds in the face of congressional economy drives in this election year.

Before an overflow crowd who jammed into the Senate's largest committee room, these points were stressed:

1. Secretary of State Acheson said a cut in foreign funds now would have "the immediate and destructive effect of undermining the whole economy of NATO—the North Atlantic Treaty Organization."

2. W. Averell Harriman, director of Mutual Security, declared that a reduction in funds would represent "a decision to reduce the strength which is being built in the free world for our common defense against the threat of the Kremlin."

3. Secretary of Defense Lovett, emphasizing the Communist-led peril to the French in Indochina, called for "a substantial increase in military assistance to that embattled Far Eastern land."

All the witnesses stressed the necessity of the multi-billion dollar program to underwrite this nation's defense against Communism.

Acheson defended the Western European countries against Congressional suggestions that they are not doing their full part in the defense buildup.

He gave as his "considered judgment" that the present efforts by European NATO members, plus certain new commitments, "approach the limit of the capacities."

"To go behind these limits," he said, "would produce a strain on their political, economic and social structures that would endanger both their security and ours—and might well wreck everything that we are trying to accomplish."

Some 10 congressmen sat in on the start of the hearings which are being held before the Senate Foreign Relations and Armed Services Committees and the House Foreign Affairs Committee.

Pleads Innocent to Malconduct Charge

Chicago, March 12 (UP)—Dr. Herman N. Borden, president of the Chicago board of health, pleaded innocent today charges of malconduct and violation of duty in connection with a horsemeat scandal.

He was indicted by a Cook County Grand Jury last week on seven counts, charging he failed to act to stop the sale of horsemeat disguised as beef or pork.

His bond was set at $5,000 and his case assigned for hearing April 10 before Judge Daniel Cahill of Criminal Court.

Meanwhile, the grand jury resumed its investigation and reportedly was preparing more indictments in the scandal.

had held out for 24 hours against orders from top union officers to go back to work. Before taking their vote they demanded and received assurance that no disciplinary action would be taken against them.

The Toledo men had resigned from their unions and set up a new union. They are expected to be taken back in good standing.

The strike, involving 6,000 engineers, conductors and firemen, was called on NYC lines west of Buffalo and at the St. Louis terminal Sunday. The order to end it was issued in federal court at Cleveland Tuesday.

The unions called the strike after more than two years of negotiations with the carriers and the government on pay and rule changes.

They are opposed to four proposed rule changes which they claim will result in substantial pay losses for their members.

Rayburn in House Plea for UMT

Washington, March 12 (UP)—Speaker Sam Rayburn threw his influence today behind a move to give universal military training another chance in the House.

Rayburn told reporters he believes the House might approve a modified UMT bill if it were brought up again.

The House last week voted 236 to 162 against an armed services committee measure under which 18-year-old males would be given six months of military training and then do a 7-12 year hitch in the reserves.

Committee chairman Carl Vinson (D-Ga.) said after the vote that he wouldn't try to revive the measure in this session. But Rep. Charles B. Brownson (R-Ind.), who wants to return UMT into a high school training program, said today he is "going to bring out another bill pretty soon."

Rayburn told reporters he believes the defeated UMT bill lost out because certain amendments were squeezed out in the preliminary mixup which preceded the vote.

The speaker said he believed the bill might win, given another chance, if it included those amendments.

Rayburn's words added weight to reports that Vinson has changed his mind and is willing to let the House try again in this session. He declined, however, to comment on Rayburn's remarks.

Thieves Get $100,000 in Jewelry

Minneapolis, March 12 (UP)—A hulking, freckle-faced thief swamped by $100,000 worth of cut diamonds, in a jewelry store here and vanished as his accomplice kept the store's owner busy exhibiting carved knives.

"There have been no arrests," a police official said today. "And that pretty well sums up the situation."

Detective Joel McNeill turned it "a bona fide theft by someone who knew the entire layout."

Police said the accomplice entered the store and asked Owner David Robinson to show him some carved knives. The second man then came in and sat down near a switchboard operator at the door to Robinson's office.

A few seconds later the thief walked into the office, opened a desk drawer and removed a small wooden box containing the gems. He walked out hurriedly, followed by his accomplice and both broke into a run.

Robinson gave chase but lost sight of the pair.

He said the box contained cut diamonds worth $100,000 only partly covered by insurance.

The switchboard operator, Lynda V. Levine, said she did not suspect the store was being robbed and when the thief came out of the office asked him if she could help him.

"No, I'm in a hurry," he replied. "I've got to go."

The proposal was not clear, Libby said, and if it meant a straight 30-for-all exchange, "it is exactly the same position advanced on Dec. 11, 1951."

"We said the next step is up to them," Libby told newsmen after the 40-minute meeting. "They said, 'the next move is up to you.'"

Actor, Dies at Age of 66
Hugh Herbert,

North Hollywood, Calif., March 12 (AP)—Hugh Herbert, 66, actor, playwright and comedian famed for his giddy "woo-woo" and flattery hands, died last night at his home of a heart attack.

He complained of feeling ill and succumbed shortly after his physician and personal friend, Dr. Victor Kovner, arrived.

After appearing in vaudeville, revues and on the New York stage, he came to Hollywood in 1927 and had been a featured comedian in scores of films. He had worked recently at a studio where he was under contract for a series of short subjects.

Some of his better known films were "The Great Waltz," "Kismet," in which he collaborated on the script, "A Miracle Can Happen" and "Beautiful Blonde From Bashful Bend."

Born in Binghamton, N.Y., and educated at Cornell University, Herbert was a tailor's boy, newsboy messenger, usher and theater prop man before getting his first acting job. That consisted of standing behind a silent movie screen and cueing the actors' parts.

Herbert was divorced in 1947 by his wife of 27 years, Mrs. Rose Herbert. They had no children.

Diphtheria Hits Troop Ship

Honolulu, March 13 (AP)—An Air Force plane parachuted diphtheria anti-toxin to a troop-laden attack transport 270 miles northeast of here late yesterday after five men became ill.

The ship's medical and dental officers and two medical corpsmen were among those stricken.

Navy doctors here expressed belief the disease was not diphtheria. The anti-toxin was flown to the transport at the request of the ship's medical officer.

The westbound transport Thomas Jefferson reached the vessel shortly after the air drop and was scheduled to put a doctor aboard.

The ship was directed to head for Honolulu, and is expected Thursday.

The Air Force identified the attack transport as the USS Bayfield, but the Navy later requested the identification be withheld.

U. S. Seeks 23 Acres of Land

Little Rock, March 13 (AP)—The federal government today asked condemnation of 23 1/2 acres of Pulaski County land which it said was "enclosed and primarily used for a distillery."

Dist. Atty. Jim Gooch said this is the first action by his office seeking seizure of real property through the courts. The government previously has condemned only personal property used illegally in moonshining.

The land involved is described as a spot on Rt. 1, Little Rock, owned by Thomas Holland Bows on four counts of violation of federal tax and whiskey laws.

Gooch also seeks court condemnation of a truck and equipment he says was used for making whiskey.

Alcohol tax agents raided the still Jan. 24.

Girls Shy Away

Dear Miss Dix: I am a man of 23 and would like to know how to attract girls. I have a pretty good disposition, go to sporting events and attend church. I have met girls at social gatherings and have asked them for dates, but have always been given some sort of line or alibi and no date. I am fairly 14, blond, blue eyed and not bad looking. I'm sure I don't see anything wrong with my character. I am a veteran and had the same trouble overseas, but it didn't worry me so much then. Now I am seriously worried about what could be wrong with me.

Answer: Seldom do I hear a complaint from a man concerning a lack of dates. That's usually a feminine complaint. You have done a fairly good job of analyzing yourself, George, and I'll do what I can for you, but the final reckoning is up to you. I doubt if you are being completely honest in evaluating your good and bad points. Obviously, there is something wrong somewhere, and just as obviously it is probably something that can be changed quite easily.

Are You Neat? First, let's take your appearance. Your description sounds like that of a personable young man. But how about your grooming? Are you neat, immaculately clean at all times? Are your clothes pressed, shoes shined, collar clean, tie unspotted, hair cut and face shaved? Have you investigated the possibilities for some of the sweet-smelling fragrances constantly brought to our attention via radio and TV commercials are often something more than annoying breaks into our favorite programs. At times they convey painful truths to which one might profitably give heed.

Then there's your approach. Do you greet a girl as though you were scared stiff of her? Or as if you were doing her a great honor by being pleasant? Both are wrong! A warm, cordial, friendly encounter is in order. What about your conversation? Here's where I think some of the trouble may lie. Are you so wrapped up in sports that they exclude all other topics in your conversation? Do you give the girl a chance to get a word in edgewise? Or are you, perhaps, so self-conscious that you make her carry the burden alone?

If you want to get ahead socially — and it will also help you in business — I suggest some attention to acquiring a little more formal education. Both your writing and spelling could be better, and if these deficiencies mirror your general knowledge, there is room for improvement. Perhaps your speech is careless. A certain amount of luxury in observing rules of pronunciation and grammar is not taken amiss, but lapses that are too frequent or too noticeable might irritate the young ladies whose favor you seek. Read more; increase your knowledge of current events.

Ousted Cuban President Now in Exile

Havana, Cuba, March 13 (AP)—Ousted President Carlos Prío Sagarras flew to exile in Mexico today leaving Gen. Fulgencio Batista, Cuba's strong man, in unchallenged control of the country.

Prío and a group of the cabinet ministers ousted with him left by plane for Mexico City with their families, at 9:24 a.m.

The former president waves sadly to less than 200 persons who applauded mildly as he entered the four-motored DC-6 air liner.

Among those who accompanied Prío were Ameliano Sanchez Arango, his foreign minister, and former Interior Minister Segundo Corti.

A heavy military guard was posted this morning at the Mexican embassy, where Prío and his associates had taken refuge and at the Rancho Boyeros International Airport from which they left.

Escorted by Mexican Ambassador Benito Coquet, Prío and his fellow exiles drove to the airport in a 25-car motorcade. Coquet's car, in which Prío rode, flew the Mexican flag on its hood.

Hiss Declares Innocence, Tells Framed

New York, March 13 (AP)—An attorney for Alger Hiss charges that the battered typewriter which helped convict the former State Department official "is a fake machine" planted as "incriminating evidence."

The lawyer, Chester T. Lane, filed supplemental affidavits yesterday seeking a new trial, called the typewriter "a deliberately fabricated job, a new typeface on an old body."

Hiss is serving a five-year federal prison term for lying to a grand jury when he denied passing government secrets to Whittaker Chambers, confessed courier for a presumed Soviet spy ring.

Hiss was convicted in a second trial after the first one ended in a hung jury.

Lane first applied in January for a third trial, alleging that Hiss' old Woodstock typewriter might have been tampered with.

Yesterday, his new affidavits state he has evidence that the type on the Woodstock had been unaltered and replaced with type faces from another machine.

"It can only have been planted on the defense by or on behalf of Whittaker Chambers as part of his plan to frame the false incrimination of Hiss," Lane said.

In the fall of 1940, Chambers produced copies of government documents which he said were typed on the machine by Hiss' wife. The Woodstock was found in a Washington attack in the spring of 1940. Lane filed the defense before the first Hiss trial.

Britisher Takes Tough NATO Job

London, March 13 (AP)—Lord Ismay, career soldier and pug-nosed buddy of Prime Minister Churchill, took on today the tough job of being NATO's civilian Eisenhower. He accepted the civilian command, secretary general of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, after a string of other assignments had turned it down.

The 64-year-old general, quitting as Britain's secretary of state, for co-republic relations, will start work alongside Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower next month as Paris headquarters.

Eisenhower will retain full control over the military. Ismay will supervise the political and financial workings of the alliance.

Lord Ismay left the Churchill government only after prodding from the prime minister and NATO deputies, who held a four-hour council session in London Wednesday.

The secretary generalship was refused by at least three other top diplomats. Sir Oliver Franks, British ambassador to the United States; Canadian Foreign Secretary Lester B. Pearson; and Dutch Foreign Minister D. U. Stikker. Several others had been approached, but their names were not announced.

Lord Ismay, a bushy-browed, square-jawed military figure of the old school, was with Churchill on the January trip to Washington and at the wartime conferences at Casablanca, Cairo, Moscow, Tehran and Yalta as Churchill's personal chief of staff.

Purchasing Act Hearing on Monday

Little Rock, March 13 (AP)—A hearing in the controversial purchasing act case may begin here Monday.

Wayne Upton, Little Rock attorney appointed by the Arkansas Supreme Court to hear evidence in the case, said yesterday he had set Monday as a tentative date to start the hearing.

The case involves a suit attacking validity of petitions asking that the statute—Act 242 of 1951 be placed on the ballot in the general election next November.

Opponents of the act, sponsored through the Legislature by the administration of Gov. McMath circulated the petitions. They claim the law would legalize irregular purchasing practices by the state.

The administration claims it would legalize purchasing procedures.

The suit attacking the petitions was filed by two Pulaski County taxpayers, who claim the petitions contain forged signatures.

Publishers Puzzled at State Action

Little Rock, March 13 (AP)—The publishers of "U. S. A. Confidential" say they are "mystified" by a telegram from an Arkansas attorney demanding that they refrain from circulating the book.

Distribution of the book by Jack Lee and Lee Mortimer, New York newspapermen, is scheduled to begin today.

A spokesman for Crown Publishers, Inc., said in New York last night that a telegram from Henry Russell, Pine Bluff attorney, ordering them not to offer the book for sale "left us mystified."

"I just don't understand what section of the law under which he is doing this," the spokesman said.

Russell was appointed special counsel by Gov. McMath to represent the state in the controversy. He cited article 4, section 4 of the U. S. Constitution, which pledges the federal government's aid to protect the states against invasion.

Russell also used this section of the constitution to urge Atty. Gen. McGrath to order Crown to withhold the book from circulation.

The book contains several complimentary remarks about the state.

In Washington, Sen. Fulbright (D-Ark.) mentioned in the volume, but he never had seen a book so vile," and put his approval on the attempt by the state to halt its circulation.

"The people of our state certainly are justified in seeking some

Watchmen Charged With Reynolds Fire

Lexington, Ky., March 13 (AP)—Two watchmen have been charged with starting the million dollar fire that destroyed a tobacco storage warehouse of the R. J. Reynolds Company here Feb. 27.

Fire Chief Earl McDaniel said Jehende DeHart, 44, confessed while undergoing a lie detector test and implicated Joe Stockton, 30, Stockton denied participation.

McDaniel said De Hart told investigators "we only started the fire so that we could watch the warehouse and not have to go the rest of our rounds in the other warehouses."

About 1,500,000 pounds of tobacco was destroyed in the warehouse fire.

All Political Experts Have Opinions

By James Marlow

Washington, March 13 (AP)—One professional politician, by himself, may sound amazingly convincing in his analysis of events, but two professionals are more amazing. They can examine the same event and produce opposite analysis.

That's why the non-experts mean practically everybody ex-will have to sit back calmly and take with a grain of salt the claims and happy forecasts coming from the professional camps.

All day yesterday in Washington and New Hampshire the pros pumped out their interpretation of the New Hampshire elections, where Eisenhower trimmed Taft and Kefauver gave President Truman a stunning beating.

The Taftites tended to pooh-pooh the significance of the returns; the Eisenhower people attached the greatest importance to them; Kefauver thought he saw a bright highway for his presidential ambitions; and only Truman kept quiet.

At this moment it's impossible to say whether Kefauver's success this week will have any effect at all on the Democratic pros when they hold their Chicago convention in July to choose a presidential candidate.

In New Hampshire, the first of a number of state primaries, the people cast two kinds of votes: one for delegates to the Chicago convention to support a designated candidate, and one in which they were able to express a direct personal preference for the candidate of their choice.

Registered New Hampshire Democrats emphatically chose Kefauver, on the two kinds of votes. But the most important question remains unanswered: Were the New Hampshire Democrats expressing the feeling of the rest of the country's Democrats in not wanting Truman?

At this moment there's no indication that the Democrats in other states holding primaries will have a chance to express a direct preference between the President and anyone else. For this reason, although Kefauver has entered a number of other primaries coming up, the President's name has not been entered in a single one where the voters could once again show direct preference between him and Kefauver.

The same basic question applies to Eisenhower and Taft: were the New Hampshire Republicans ex-

Studebaker Sales Hit a New Record

South Bend, Ind., March 13—Sales of the Studebaker Corporation in 1951, its 100th year as a business enterprise, established a record of $50,308,865.88, passing the half-billion mark for the first time. Harold S. Vance, board chairman and president, disclosed in the annual report to stockholders.

Studebaker's report is issued in two parts, the first covering the year 1951, and the second a special centennial report embracing the first 100 years of the company's history.

Consolidated net income in 1951 amounted to $12,623,129.66, or $5.35 per share, compared with $22,506,828.60, or $9.35 per share, for 1950. Sales in 1951 increased $26,242,501.14 over the previous record mark of $24,066,367.74 established in 1950. Mr. Vance said the record in net income was due primarily to government control of prices of the company's finished products without corresponding control of costs of material, labor and services entering into their manufacture.

At the end of 1951, Studebaker's net worth amounted to $44.70 per share, compared with $42.40 per share at the end of 1950, and working capital at the end of 1951 had risen to $54,707,989.99 from $38,110,256.26 at the end of 1950. Dividends paid in 1951 amounted to $3 per share, compared with $3.35 per share in 1950.

Higher taxes and reduced unit production, again by governmental control, to a lesser degree than price control, adversely affected net income, Mr. Vance stated.

He pointed out that the principal factor influencing net income in 1951 "was the policy of the Office of Price Stabilization which required automobile manufacturers to absorb substantial increases in the cost of material, labor and services."

Nothing that Studebaker throughout 1951 produced heavy-duty military trucks on schedules limited by the availability of components furnished by others, Mr. Vance said the company expects that more components will be available, and that substantially more military trucks can be produced in 1952 than in 1951.

"Considerable progress has been made in securing tools and equipment for the production of jet engines," he added, "and it is expected that production of these engines will start on schedule in the near future and will be greatly expanded in 1952."

In describing the Studebaker centennial report, Mr. Vance told how the founders of the enterprise started with $68 in working capital, equipment consisting of two sets of blacksmith tools and themselves.

The country's Republicans in choosing the general over the senator? Eisenhower won in the direct preference vote and took all the delegates, too.

At this moment the Republicans in only one other state, New Jersey, will have an opportunity to show a direct preference between Taft and Eisenhower because that's the only state where the names of both men have been entered in a preferential primary.

In several states the two men oppose each other in a vote for delegates. This may indicate a degree of voter preference between the two although not in quite the same way as a direct preference vote on them.

as their only employees. One hundred started with $68 in working capital, is nearly one million times greater; equipment has increased to four plants valued at approximately $50 million and employment is about ten thousand times what it was in 1852.

Highlight of the 100-year report itself is an account of the company's outstanding progress of the past five years, in which total sales have amounted to $2.1 billion as compared to $2.8 billion of sales in all the preceding 95 years, excluding war production for World Wars I and II.

New the world's fourth largest manufacturer of motor vehicles, Studebaker also has accomplished a remarkable growth in net worth in the last five years, the report notes. Up from $40.6 million at the start of 1947 to $53.6 million in 1949, to $59.9 million in 1950, the net worth of The Studebaker Corporation as it ended its first century, was $105 million.

The document points out that only three managements have guided the enterprise through all its 100 years: first, that of the Studebaker brothers; then that of Moses Frederick S. Fish and A. R. Erskine; and the present management, which began in 1935 when Mr. Vance became board chairman and Paul G. Hoffman president. Mr. Vance has been president since 1948, when Mr. Hoffman resigned to head the government's Economic Cooperation Administration.

Names of Plane Victims Withheld

Wiesbaden, Germany, March 12 (AP)—A U. S. Air Force spokesman said today he does not expect the names of the victims in the C-47 transport crash in Switzerland last Friday will be released before all eight bodies have been recovered.

"And that may still take weeks," the spokesman added.

So far, only four bodies have been recovered from near the 13,000-foot Jungfrau Peak where the C-47 plunged down. Swiss mountain climbers said the other bodies were buried under three feet of snow.

According to unofficial reports, the victims included two colonels, two captains, and four privates of the U. S. Air Force. The plane was flying from Madrid to Paderborn, its home base in Bavaria.

Fired Foreman to Be Reinstated

Pine Bluff, March 13 (AP)—A labor foreman whose discharge brought a complaint from an AFL union will be reinstated at the Pine Bluff Arsenal's secret construction project.

Col. Hans W. Holmer, Little Rock district engineer, said yesterday after a conference with Blaw-Knox Construction Co. officials that the man would be rehired.

The official grievance against the company followed a 6-day unauthorized strike by the hod carriers and common laborers union.

DAT SHOWS IT'S DE NATCHEL KIND!

—and NATURAL Chilean Nitrate furnishes sodium PLUS minor plant food elements

World's only natural nitrate. Natural Chilean Nitrate of Soda contains 100% nitrate nitrogen... fast-acting, completely available nitrogen. Nitrate of soda furnishes more nitrate nitrogen than any other alkaline nitrate. Dissolves in normal soil moisture. Promotes growth and increases yield, improves quality and protein content of food and feed crops.

Sodium-beneficial to plant vigor. Chilean Nitrate contains 26% sodium, equivalent to 35% sodium oxide. Sodium acts like potash—can partly substitute for it when that element is lacking in the soil. By itself sodium increases the availability of applied phosphate... tends to "sweeten" the soil... improves crop health and vigor.

Chilean Nitrate's snowy-white pellets can be applied quickly and efficiently in any standard distributor. For more than 100 years, successful farmers have enjoyed larger yields and better quality crops through continuous use of Natural Chilean Nitrate. When you buy, look for the bulldog on the bag. That's NATURAL Chilean Nitrate of Soda—"de natchel kind!"

Sabotage Effort Enters Red Trial

Los Angeles, March 13 (AP)—A sabotage discussion has been thrown into the California Communist conspiracy trial by undercover agent Daniel Scarletto.

At 1950 Communist club meetings in Los Angeles, Scarletto said, interest was shown in home-made U. S. efforts in Korea. On cross-examination yesterday, Scarletto, FBI undercover man testified:

"The club members cheered when I said I could keep a lot of planes on the ground."

The club chairman advised members to have relatives "get into the Army so we can set up plans like the Russians did in their revolution."

Scarletto did not place any of the defendants at these meetings. He identified the chairman as Gertrude Staughton.

He did, however, quote defendant Bob Dobbs, in a 1950 speech, as giving tacit approval to Communist sabotage of American rocket launchers at Nice, France.

He also said Dobbs urged party members to circulate Stockholm peace petitions quickly "before the FBI could kill the program."

To a defense question, Scarletto admitted he did not know of any Communist who had sabotaged airplanes, but remarked: "I hope no one in the Communist party gets to lay a hand on an airplane."

The witness said that, at another meeting, the chairman asked him to point out on a map U. S. air bases that he knew of in the south Pacific. Scarletto is a navy veteran and former aircraft worker who spent on the Communist party for 4 1/2 years.

Kidney Slow-Down May Bring Restless Nights

When kidney function slows down, many folks complain of nagging backache, headache, dizziness and loss of pep and energy. Don't suffer restless nights with these discomforts if reduced kidney function is getting you down—due to such common causes as stress and strain, over-exercising or exposure to cold. Minor bladder irritations due to cold or wrong diet may cause getting up nights or frequent passages.

Don't neglect your kidneys if these conditions bother you. Try Doan's Pills—a mild diuretic. Used successfully by millions for over 50 years. It's amazing how many times Doan's help the 15 million of kidney tubes and filters flush out waste. Get Doan's Pills today!

Jurist Becomes President of Burma

Rangoon, Burma, March 13 (AP)—A distinguished 64-year-old jurist became Burma's first president today.

He is former Supreme Court Justice Ba U. He was elected at a joint session of the House of Representatives and House of Deputies that made up the Parliament for the Union of Burma.

He succeeds Sao Shwe Thak, who was named provisional president when Burma got its independence from Britain in 1948.

In keeping with Burma's democratic practices, Ba U gave up his right to be called as Sir Ba U when he became president. He had been knighted by the British in recognition for his services during the years Burma was under British domination.

Thankin Nu, the Burmese premier has requested that Thaklin be dropped from his name and that he be known in the future as plain U Nu. Thaklin means "master" and was adopted when he was in a political opposition party prior to 1948.

The new president is a former deputy commissioner of Burma. He was educated at Cambridge.

President Hides Behind Cheerfulness

Key West, Fla., March 13 (AP)—President Truman today hid behind an outwardly cheerful countenance both bitterness and disappointment over his turning defeat in New Hampshire by Sen. Estes Kefauver of Tennessee.

Intimates told newsmen he has said little even to them of the blow that befell his prestige in today's Democratic presidential preference primary.

"They wouldn't talk for quotation. The only official word from Truman's vacation camp was Presidential Secretary Joseph Short's assertion the New Hampshire defeat would have absolutely no effect on the President's ultimate decision whether to run again.

Some of these intimates privately made no effort to hide their own anger at party leaders in New Hampshire who persuaded the President to allow his name to remain on the ballot there after he had announced he would ask its withdrawal.

The argument apparently was made that the Truman state of delegates could carry the state. And the President was told the delegates wanted to make the race.

"It is always a mistake when the President is persuaded to do something against his own political judgment," one aide said.

The defeat in New Hampshire now makes two things more difficult for the President.

1. He may find it harder to bow out should that be his desire, than he would have before. If there is one thing which identifies his political philosophy more than any other it is his frequent declaration "I never ran away from a fight in my life."

2. The New Hampshire upset could make his comeback fight more difficult than it would have been had he not come out of the contest. And it could change the minds for some who have been insisting that he make the race for re-election.

The President's advisers at the same time sought to discount the importance of the turn of events in the New England state.

Two More Against 'Phone Rate Hike

Little Rock, March 13 (AP)—Two more Arkansas towns have protested a proposed rate increase for the Southwestern States Telephone Company.

Representatives of Des Arc and Jacksonville yesterday protested the firm's request for a $120,000 rate boost at Arkansas Public Service Commission hearing.

City Attorney J. K. Caskey of Des Arc told the commission that he objected to the increase because the company's service does not justify it.

D. T. Strickland, general manager of Southwestern, told the PSC that his company planned to spend 2 1/2 million dollars on construction in Arkansas by 1953. He did not elaborate on construction plans.

Opponents Know Truman, Taft's Might

Washington, March 13 (AP)—Political opponents of President Truman and Sen. Taft ranked them today as "still formidable" adversaries despite the New Hampshire presidential primary vote edge scored by Sen. Kefauver and Gen. Eisenhower.

Kefauver, Tennessee Democrat, upset Truman in Tuesday's contest. And Eisenhower swept over Ohio's Taft on the Republican ticket.

"Say what you want about Harry Truman, he's a fighter, especially when he's hurt—and he's hurt now," said Sen. Aiken (R-Vt.).

Aiken predicted last month Kefauver would "beat the tar" out of Truman in the New Hampshire primary.

"Kefauver did just that all right," Aiken said today, "but now he's got a man (Truman) who must be fighting mad and the going will be tougher."

As for Taft, Sen. Ives (R-NY), who is backing Eisenhower, declared:

"Don't anyone think for a minute that Bob Taft is out of the race. On our side, we aren't taking anything for granted. That July non-binding convention is still a long way off and anything can happen in politics."

In New Hampshire, Kefauver won over Truman in the preferential (popularity) contest by 20,147 votes to 16,208. The Tennessee air won all 12 Democratic delegates, who have eight convention votes.

On the Republican ticket, Eisenhower piled up 40,407 preferential votes to 35,820 for Taft. And Eisenhower too, made a clean sweep of the delegates—10 to the TOP convention.

Ives said the New Hampshire vote "proved Eisenhower can get the nomination without coming home to campaign, if he wants it that way."

Europe, Eisenhower commented, "is an American who is honored by so many other Americans considering him fit for the presidency should be proud, or, by golly, he is an American."

Kefauver, weary from two weeks of New Hampshire campaigning, told a news conference here late yesterday that "victory in one primary is not a sure sign of success in others."

"He said he will enter or has entered nine other primaries and will campaign in all of them. He listed contests in Florida, Illinois, Ohio, California, Wisconsin, Nebraska, Maryland, New Jersey and Oregon."

Taft, campaigning in Texas, said he was "a little disappointed" about his showing in New Hampshire.

Truman declined to comment on his defeat.

"However, the President's press secretary, Joseph Short, said at the 'Little White House' in Key West, Fla., that Kefauver's victory would have absolutely no effect on Truman's decision on whether to seek re-election."

Short added that Truman had said so himself.

Sen. Humphrey (D-Minn.) said it was a "political mistake" for Truman to have decided to enter the New Hampshire primary—after first declaring that presidential preferential primaries were "eye-wash."

"He had everything to lose and absolutely nothing to gain," said Humphrey.

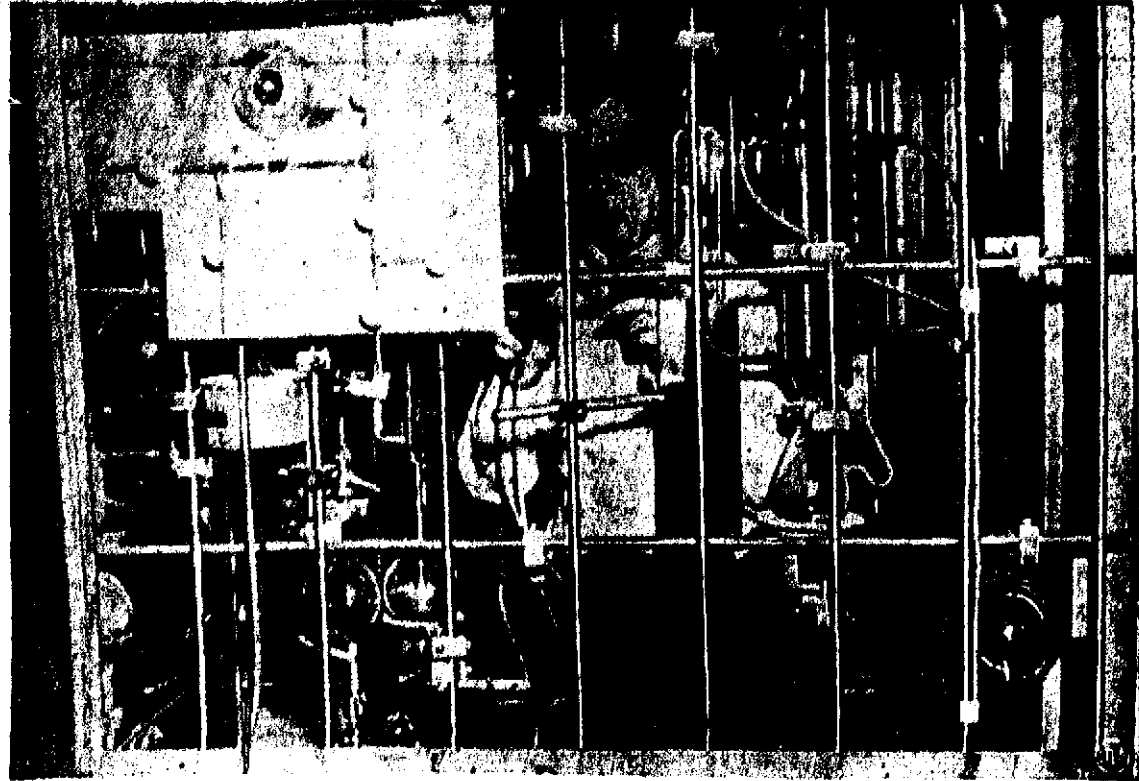

Sen. Anderson (D-NM) also called it a "wrong move."

"He doesn't need a single primary vote to get the nomination if he wants it," Anderson said. "He can get it by a wave of his hand. I hope he doesn't enter any more."

Truman changed his mind and went into New Hampshire after being told the party organization's slate of delegate candidates would be forced out of the picture if he didn't run.

Some of the President's intimates privately made no effort to hide their own anger at New Hampshire party leaders who persuaded Truman to allow his name to remain on the ballot after he had said he would ask its withdrawal.

"It is always a mistake when the President is persuaded to do something against his own political judgment," one said.

... AND IT COMES OUT HERE—This complicated array of tubes and other apparatus at Oak Ridge, Tenn., National Laboratory, merely siphons off one of the by-products of the big atomic pile. B. J. Massey is sealing off a tube of tritium, which has made its way through the man-made "jungle." This was one of the Oak Ridge operations shown to newspaper reporters and photographers for the first time, as they watched how the atomic pile "cooks" and processes radioactive isotopes for medical and industrial uses, as well as for atomic bomb production.

March winds whipping up rough air

By The Associated Press

March winds whipped a variety of rough weather over wide areas of the country today from the plains to the Appalachians.

The Midwest got the worst of the weather, with strong winds, snow and rain. The snow fell over most of the northern great plains. Temperatures ranged from 20 to 30 degrees.

Rain pelted areas from Iowa eastward and southward as far as the Appalachian Mountains. Cold air masses and snow headed for the north central region.

The Weather Bureau reported considerable dust in the air over the central Mississippi Valley as a result of the high winds in the southern great plains in the last 24 hours. A tornado hit in southwestern Iowa yesterday, damaging farm buildings in Ringgold County. Dust storms were reported in Kansas, Oklahoma and Texas yesterday.

Light snow and rain fell in parts of Nevada, Washington and Oregon but it was mostly cloudy in other parts of the western third of the nation. Mostly fair skies with temperatures near normal prevailed along the Atlantic seaboard.

Industry Busy on New Steel Formula

Washington, March 13 (AP)—Steel industry leaders were busy today studying the government's new steel price formula. It was considered unlikely, however, that the price boost involved in the formula would be enough to head off a steel strike scheduled to begin 10 days from now.

The Office of Price Stabilization (OPS) came up with the formula yesterday but did not make its details public. It was believed to involve authority to raise steel prices between $2 and $3 a ton.

The CIO's United Steelworkers, who have fixed March 23 for the start of a nationwide strike, are demanding a wage boost of 14-12 cents an hour. Steel leaders said they can't pay that much money without authority to raise prices.

Steel industry leaders have estimated they need a price hike of between $5 and $8 a ton to be able to pay what the union demands. Otherwise, they said, the industry faces bankruptcy.

The OPS formula was based on the Capper Amendment to the law that set up wage and price controls. Under it, manufacturers may pass on to the consumer their added costs of operation. The amendment has a cutoff date—last July 26. Increased costs since then cannot be considered under present laws.

Truman Hits Barrage of Private Power

Chicago, March 13 (UPI)—President Truman accused the private power industry today of launching "one of the most vicious propaganda barrages in history" in an attempt to ruin the federal power program.

He said this campaign is "evil and dangerous" because it is being waged through full-page magazine and newspaper advertisements which carefully hide the truth from the American people.

"This drive has the main purpose of restoring the unlimited right of private monopoly to exploit this nation's water power resources," The President said.

"We have to fight it every step of the way, just as we have had to fight for every gain made for the public interest in the last 20 years."

The President made his stinging attack on the power interests in a message to the National Rural Electric Cooperation Association. The message was read by Secretary of Interior Oscar L. Chapman, who called the power fight "one of the great issues of our time."

Mr. Truman said he has always believed that the nation's resources belong to all the people instead of a few and that electric power produced with public money "ought to be used for the benefit of the people and not for the benefit of the private power companies."

"Those are the principles on which the federal government has been operating," he said. "But the private power lobby never has agreed with those principles and it doesn't agree with them now. That is what is back of the attacks on our federal power policy today."

The President said the nation has made tremendous strides under the public power program since 1933 when the Tennessee Valley Authority was created. Since then, he said, there has been a three-fold increase in residential use of electricity, electrification of farms has multiplied six times and the private power industry itself has grown far larger under the impetus of the federal program.

Conservatives to Cut Food Subsidies

London, March 13 (AP)—Winston Churchill's Conservative government appears determined to cut to the near-vanishing point food subsidies which have cost Britain more than seven billion dollars since World War II.

In the Conservative government's budget this week, Chancellor of the Exchequer R. A. Butler gave the subsidies the biggest trimming since they started during the last war. And in a nationwide broadcast soon after, he criticized the system under which citizens pay out taxes so the government can sell food at prices under cost.

Butler told Britons he was handing back some of their tax money. But he said they ought to pay the real cost of the food they eat.

But after the cuts—which slash the subsidies from more than a billion dollars a year to 700 millions—the housewives still won't be paying the cost of basic foods when they go marketing.

That's one reason many observers think Butler may plan further cuts in later budgets.

But such action probably is opposed by Butler's fellow cabinet minister, Lord Woolton—the man who did most to develop the subsidies when he was Britain's wartime food minister.

The food ministry never says just how the subsidies are distributed but Woolton used the taxpayers' money to keep down the prices of bread, flour, meat, bacon, ham,

Another Tunisia Blast Kills Five

Tunis, Tunisia, March 13 (AP)—A bomb blew up in Gabes Rail road Station last night as a train drew in killing five persons and injuring 17 others.

Police and government sources hinted Communists have taken a hand in Tunisian violence and were inclined not to blame Nationalists, who have carried out previous raids to enforce their demands for more independence from French rule.

The Nationalists said they had nothing to do with the station explosion. Sources close to French President General Jean de Hautecloque took a similar view.

fats, cheese, eggs, milk sugar and tea.

As a result of his administration—and despite submarine warfare and rising prices—Britain came through the lean war year fit and well fed.

But once instituted, the food subsidies became an integral part of Britain's welfare state which the postwar Government installed.

At war's end they were costing more than 700 million dollars a year.

All subsidized food is bought in bulk by the Food Ministry which uses the subsidy money to resell them at below cost to traders.

In postwar years, rising prices have gradually inflated the subsidies to a high of $1,355,600,000 in 1949. At that point, the then Chancellor of the Exchequer, Sir Stafford Cripps, yanked them down to a bit over one billion dollars by ordering an increase in retail prices. They have been kept around that level since.

SUFFERING FROM ASTHMA? COULD BE YOUR LUCK! JOHN P. COX AND CRESCENT DRUG CO. HOPE, ARK.

Some of the President's intimates privately made no effort to hide their own anger at New Hampshire party leaders who persuaded Truman to allow his name to remain on the ballot after he had said he would ask its withdrawal.

"It is always a mistake when the President is persuaded to do something against his own political judgment," one said.

Little boy: "And his big brother's pants."

"Has he a large vocabulary?"

"Yes, he married one."

Cicero Police Are Acquitted

Chicago, March 13 (AP)—Police Chief Erwin Konovsky of Cicero was acquitted yesterday of a charge of omission of duty in last July's race riot in the all-white suburb.

Judge Frank R. Leonard directed a criminal court jury to return a verdict of innocent. He told the jury the state presented insufficient evidence to warrant conviction and it returned an acquittal.

Konovsky was indicted on a charge of connivance after the rioting, which was brought on by the attempts of Harvey Clark, a Negro, and his family to move into an apartment in Cicero.

The Illinois National Guard was called to disperse an estimated 5,000 persons assembled around the building, which was virtually destroyed by the rioters.

Visiting Around Arkansas

BY JOE MARSH

Gigantic Nitrogen Plant at El Dorado Helping Arkansas Farmers

Down at El Dorado the other day, I saw a big, new nitrogen plant that's making fertilizers for Arkansas farmers. It seems they take what's called "sour" gas and separate out the nitrogen.

It certainly helps a lot of Arkansas farmers who use nitrogen to grow bigger and better crops on run-down land. That nitrogen—they call it ammonium nitrate—is mighty powerful stuff!

Speaking of farmers and their crops reminds me that they sure have an enormous market in the Brewing Industry. Yes, sir, along with lots of other farm products, millions of pounds of Arkansas rice are sold annually to make good American malt beverages.

I reckon the brewer and the Arkansas farmer team up pretty well for better business, prosperity and more of the comforts of life.

And one of the comforts of life is to enjoy a good glass of beer in a clean, wholesome, law-abiding establishment like we have down here in Arkansas!

New Styles by Nash on Anniversary

Detroit, March 13 — Original design with a European flair keynotes Nash Motors' new 1952 Ambassador and Statesman Golden Anniversary models announced today.

Styled by Pinin Farina, world-renowned custom body designer, the new cars will be displayed in dealer showrooms throughout the country tomorrow, March 14. The introduction marks Nash Motors' 50th Anniversary. Its Kenosha, Wis., plant having started production of Rambler automobiles in 1902.

"The new Pinin Farina-styled Nash cars demonstrate that expensive hand built European custom car design can be applied to American mass production," according to H. C. Doss, vice president in charge of sales. "Pinin Farina has the rare ability to visualize a new design as a finished car. He works directly in sheet metal on a wood skeleton dispensing with the usual full scale models in clay and plaster, as well as mahogany mock-ups."

Pinin Farina is famous in the foreign custom car field for having designed more individually styled custom bodies than any other designer in the world, Doss said.

In addition to emphasis on styling the 1952 Nash models feature new type front-end suspension, increased roominess and improved comfort; Road Guide front fenders and lower hood for greater visibility and safety; increased engine horsepower; glass area increased up to 25 per cent, and other advancements aimed at performance, comfort, safety and economy.

Outstanding design innovations aimed at function, as well as beauty of line, are offered in the new 1952 Nash cars. Increased visibility is achieved by a hood line that is lower than the front fender lines. The wider and lower hood provides a balanced frame for the grille, creating a new type front-end beauty, Doss said. "The fender-hood line is carried past the windshield into the interior, in effect becoming an integral part of the instrument panel. As in the case of Nash Motors' experimental NX1, "Road Guide" front fenders, easily seen by the driver, rise above the hood line.

"The 1952 Nash models offer design unity and simplicity not dependent for elegance and beauty upon excessive chrome ornamentation," Doss said. "In Pinin Farina's unique styling the hood line, fender line, body line blend as a harmonized whole, like fine sculpture which must please the eye from every direction under all lighting conditions. We call it Flying Sculpture. It always looks alive and right, streaking down the road or at the curb, whether viewed from front, side or back."

Farina is under exclusive American contract to Nash Motors. His crest, symbol of royal appointment adorns custom bodies on almost every leading car chassis made in Europe.

In profile, the new cars emphasize length and sleekness. Enclosed front fenders blend into the sides of the body and continue in line through similarly styled rear fenders. The grille is a one-piece die casting on which the Nash crest is centered. Ribbed bumpers are of a rugged wrap-around type contoured to follow the outline of fenders.

The new models feature Nash-pioneered Airflyte unitized-type body construction found also in modern planes and trains. It combines body and frame into a single welded unit of greater torsional strength, offering improved riding comfort, lifelong quietness and maximum safety to passengers, Doss said.

Beauty Highlights '52 Nash

The wider and lower hood of the new 1952 Nash Ambassador and Statesman Golden Anniversary models provides a balanced frame for the grille, creating a new type front-end beauty. Styled by Pinin Farina, world-renowned European custom body designer, the new cars have increased visibility achieved by a hood line that is lower than the front fender lines. The fender-hood line is carried past the windshield into the interior, in effect becoming an integral part of the instrument panel. "Road-Guide" front fenders, easily seen by the driver, rise above the hood line.

end suspension, called "Airflex Suspension," is a feature of both models. Vertical coil springs, extra long and flexible, are located above heavy steering knuckles which take direct vertical loads. Unsprung weight is reduced, providing superior riding and handling qualities. Four direct acting air-plane type shock absorbers control low frequency spring action.

Passenger comfort has been improved by moving the passenger compartment forward in relation to the wheel centers resulting in increased front and rear seat width, headroom and legroom. Larger front and rear door openings are positioned for easy entry.

Combined airliner reclining seat and convertible twin beds are available as optional equipment on all 1952 Ambassador and Statesman models.

Front and rear seats have been redesigned with a new system of coil springing and treatment with flocking material. Front and rear arm rests and large center arm rest in the rear seat are standard equipment on custom models, optional on others.

Helene Rother, Nash Motors' interior design and styling consultant designed trim and attractive color and fabric combinations in the new models. Three striking and original needlepoint and homespun combinations are available in the custom series.

The new Ambassador has an improved six-cylinder overhead-valve Super Jetfire engine with horsepower increased from 115 to 120, and bore enlarged to 3 1/2 inches, increasing total displacement to 252.6 cubic inches. A Direct-draft horizontal Uniflo-Jet carburetor replaces the downdraft carburetor used in previous Ambassador engines.

Power plant of the 1952 Statesman is a six-cylinder L-head engine, with horsepower increased from 85 to 88. Engine stroke is increased to 4 1/4 inches, raising total displacement to 195.6 cubic inches for improved performance.

The 1952 Nash Ambassador has a wheelbase of 121 1/4 inches. The Statesman has a wheelbase of 114 1/4 inches.

Rome —I have just finished the spiritual task of signing my income tax returns and mailing the appropriate checks. I discover that during the last year I worked about six months for my "governments, federal and state. At a glance this would seem to leave the earnings from the other six months work for myself, but that is not the case. Roughly two-fifths of this remainder is committed to employees and dependents, to taxes other than the income taxes, and to insurance. I find that, for myself, I can figure on about 30 per cent of the income, most of which I earn by very hard exacting work. I get a little of my income from dividends, having sold my government bonds because, under inflation, they were a losing investment.

The companies which pay me the stock dividends all pay income taxes before I come in for my share. Some of them have obligations to pay large pensions to high-salaried executives who rigged these deals for themselves at the expense of us stockholders, in their board meetings. In some cases, the lesser employees of the companies have been let in for pensions, too.

The executives began to develop social conscience after they had voted themselves the big fat pensions. The unions said that there was no human or social difference between a chairman or a vice-president at a big desk and a manual worker at a lathe, for example. This embarrassed the high executives so they took the broad, humane view and signed up. That is, they committed us stockholders, who had bought the stock with money we had saved by self-denial, after paying our taxes and meeting our family responsibilities, to pay pensions to the horny-handed types. But nobody ever has brought in any proposal of pensions for us stockholders. We don't begin to figure at all until federal and state taxes of all kinds and pensions for executives and toilers have been paid. Then we get our dividends if there is any money left. We take all the risk.

If there aren't any dividends, that is our tough luck. If a stock that cost $50 a share goes down to 10, well, that is just the way it goes, eh? But if it goes up and we sell at a profit, that profit is taxable either as income or as capital gain.

So, the first 70 cents of every dollar I get is ear-marked, most of it for "government." I don't get a sandwich or a roof to shelter me from the snow or again until I am right down to the last 30 cents of each dollar.

This comes home to me with particular poignance over here in Europe. In my recent inquiries at Bonn and bad Godesberg, on the Rhine, I found State Department errand boys—errand boys, mind you, although they are called couriers—getting $60 a week and free living quarters in new model furnished apartments paid for by my income taxes and yours. It is the fashion how to build modernistic apartment houses to accommodate the hordes of parasites who make up the unseen bureaucracy of our State Department in the far places of the world. I don't like to be personal about these types. There may be some competent people among them who could get by off a campus or outside a political edifice, but I will tell you this, that the majority are true New Deal Washington leeches. You sprinkle bug-powder in one department and they scurry through the cracks to another. Strike down one department absolutely and another department opens up in the same premises with the same people. As Leon Dayton, the chief of our Mutual Security administration in Rome, said the other day, when the RGA expired and Mutual Security opened up, they just changed the names on the doors.

Up at Bonn and Godesberg we built this compound in obedience to a State Department decision that wherever American bureaucrats roam abroad these days and, presumably, henceforth forever, their money will buy less than it would at home. So, our civilian employees and the families of our military people live in rented quarters for which they are allowed rent bonuses. The State Department is now planning to build similar compounds in many other foreign cities and there is a very frank implication that our colonies of bureaucrats will really grow. Rent will be free, as at Bonn, and the practice of providing groceries, fresh meat, lollipops, cosmetics, and golf balls at cheaper prices than American retail and of knocking off the regular American taxes on cigarettes and booze now has the force of law. The bosses get free limousines, chauffeurs and gasoline. We are told that if our bureaucrats don't get these luxuries, which many of them have sold in the black markets, they will quit and leave us flat. I wish to hell we could count on that. In Madrid some of them even blackmarket automobiles.

The American Army and Air Force are outrageously pampered with family allowances and special "commutations" which make these the most expensive forces in the history of arms, even before the recent proposals of new raises. A group picture which reached Europe the other day showed a woman with nine children, the family of an Air Force sergeant who were going to go to England. If any sergeant is worth the cost that such a family imposes on the public, he shouldn't be a sergeant but at least a major general. But no sergeant is worth that much. And, anyway, why send him overseas where he is automatically entitled to the expensive family accommodations that the stupid regulations lay down?

Like civil service parasites in the Labyrinth of Washington and county buildings across the land, the career people in the enlisted ranks are letter perfect in the complex tables of their dues and privileges. They spend much of their mental energy counting up. A corporal in an M. P. company driving a car at SHAPE, outside Paris, told me he had saved $400 in 18 months and expected to have $500 when he was paid off at the end of his two year hitch as a draftee. Until he joined up he had never had a dollar. He said he probably wouldn't have accumulated $25 in the same time in civil life.

Eisenhower and other generals all recognize the ruinous extravagance of rates of pay and allowan-

Slaying Suspect Sought by Police

San Francisco, March 12 (AP)—A tip from a waitress started an intensive bay area search today for Frederick J. (Angel) Tenuto, wanted for questioning in New York in the slaying of Arnold Schuster. Schuster's tip led police to the arrest of bank robber Willie (The Actor) Sutton.

Tenuto was identified from a newspaper. The waitress said he entered her restaurant near the Southern Pacific depot. Police refused to disclose his name or the restaurant's because of what happened to Schuster. He was shot down Saturday night near his Brooklyn home. He had pointed out Sutton to police Feb. 18.

Inspector Al Nelder, who questioned the woman, described her as "a level-headed, intelligent person, who was convinced the man she saw was Tenuto."

Police put out an all-points bulletin for Tenuto, an escaped murderer and pal of Sutton.

Tree rings on the giant redwoods in California show that some of ces for enlisted men, yet afraid to utter a word.

In Rome the propaganda machine already has hoked up a big program of "documentary" movies to show what wonderful work the devoting horde of campus bums and press-agents, rejected from our journalism for general uselessness have done in bringing Italy to the brink of Communist insurrection seven years after a tragic force of poor Jews turned the country over to them at the end of a bloody war. Do you know what they are going to do with these "documentaries" now? The State Department will supply them as free material to commercial television producers, as though we, the taxpayers, need "indoctrination" from the State Department.

And, of course, none of these privileged parties expects ever to have to get along on the miserable dole of the old age pension fete which is the mirage of our so-called Social Security. The civilian parasites, including judges and congressmen and notably Harry Truman, clerks and cops, all have much more generous arrangements awaiting them. I am a member of that very small class who can look forward to no more than $42 a month when I am 65—provided, of course, that I am willing to forego gainful toil in excess of $400 a year.

Claims Baruch Financed Mr. Truman

Key West, Fla., March 12 (UP)—President Truman's 140 race for the Senate in Missouri was financed in part by Bernard M. Baruch, a magazine writer said today.

The White House had no comment on the statement.

An account of Baruch's financial assistance to Mr. Truman was published in a Saturday Evening Post article by Samuel Lubell entitled "What You Don't Know About Truman."

Baruch, New York and South Carolina financier, served as an unofficial but influential adviser to several presidents, including Mr. Truman. In 1948, Baruch refused a Truman invitation to serve on the Democratic Party finance committee and the President broke with him.

Lubell, who has been closely associated with Baruch for years, wrote that in 1940 Mr. Truman "had no funds of his own for campaign purposes" and the Kansas City Democratic organization was in a bad way for money. The organization's leader, Boss T. J. Pendergast, had just been jailed.

The writer said that Mr. Truman told his financial troubles to James F. Byrnes, then a senator from South Carolina and a close friend of Baruch. Byrnes, who later also broke with Mr. Truman, south of Baruch, .. and interested him in Truman's behalf," Lubell wrote.

"Up to this time, Bennett Clark, then senior senator from Missouri, had been supporting Jacob Milligan, the third candidate in the field. Convinced Milligan couldn't win, Clark decided to switch to Truman. Clark also went to Baruch for campaign funds. Again Baruch contributed generously."

"That Baruch should have been interested in Mr. Truman by Byrnes, who has become a leader of the Democratic anti-Truman opposition, 'must surely rate as one of the more ironic footnotes in American political history,' Lubell wrote.

"Dad, why does the law limit a man to only one wife?"

"My son, when you are older you will realize that the law protects those who are incapable of protecting themselves."

Father Sees Son After 28 Years

Arlington, Va., March 12 (AP)—A father who made a town-to-town telephone search for his son, whom he hadn't seen in 30 years, enjoyed a happy reunion here today.

"The calls I made from here were person-to-person so it wasn't as expensive as it sounds," explained Frank Sobolewski, 61.

"There was no charge for most of the calls."

Little Frankie was only 2 when his father last saw him in Pensacola Fla., April 1, 1922, and sent him off to Texas. He was a strapping man of 32 when he arrived by plane yesterday from Portland, Tex., where he is a welder.

The son had taken the name of Frank Crawford, for the foster parent, Hodge Crawford, who reared him, in Hochheim, Tex. Lack of money and illness, Sobolewski said, kept him from seeing his son before now. For years a clarinetist with the Army Band, he has been completely disabled since 1934.

Sobolewski said he sent the boy and his wife to Luling, Texas, 1922 to wait his discharge from the Army in Pensacola. Before he arrived in Texas, the boy had been sent to his wife's grandparents, Luling and Sobolewski's wife joined him in setting up a music shop in Lubbock.

Sobolewski went broke and decided to make his way to Washington, D. C. He hitchhiked across the country and re-enlisted in the Army in late 1922. After hitching with the red Cavalry Band and a tour of the Army Music School, Sobolewski joined the Army Band.

Meanwhile, young Frank's great-grandmother died and he was placed with the Crawfords. Sobolewski paid $10 a month to help support the lad until 1927. Then he lost track of the boy.

"DAVID AND BATHSHEBA" — The Story in Pictures — Part I

(1) In the spring, three thousand years ago, King David's (GREGORY PECK) army lays siege to the walled city of Rabbah. Uriah the Hittite (KIERON MOORE) leads the King on the patrol. Surrounded by the Ammonites, they fight their way to safety just as a rescue party arrives. (2) Returning to his palace in Jerusalem, David deals with affairs of state. When he is confronted by the first of his wives, Michal, daughter of the former King Saul, David admits, having married her only to win the northern tribes to his side. (3) The unhappy King, strolling on the palace terrace, spies a woman bathing on an adjacent roof and is smitten by her beauty. Though he learns that she is Bathsheba (SUSAN HAYWARD), wife of Uriah, David has her brought to him. Bathsheba confesses that her own marriage is also loveless and that she had hoped to gain David's attention by bathing herself in his view. Knowing the sin, they commit, the discontented pair succumb to their desires. (4) Hearing from Nathan the Prophet (RAYMOND MASSEY) that God looks with favor upon David's plan to bring the Ark of the Covenant into Jerusalem from Philistia, David, taking Bathsheba with him, leaves for the city's outskirts to view the holy object. They pass a mob stoning an adulteress and are haunted by its reflection of their own guilt. Disturbed, David sends Bathsheba home. (To be continued)

Governors Study Tax Splitting Plan

Washington, March 12 (AP) — A group of governors and local officials met with congressmen today to discuss new ways of splitting future tax dollars.

The state officials include such politically potent figures as Gov. Alfred E. Driscoll of New Jersey, Gov. Adlai Stevenson of Illinois and Gov. Walter J. Kohler Jr. of Wisconsin.

But there was no indication of any early action to remove overlapping, duplication and even tripling of existing taxes.

A House Ways and Means subcommittee headed by Rep. Doughton (D-N.C.) arranged a round-table discussion of multiple taxation of such things as gasoline, tobacco, admissions and estates. So everybody could throw their ideas forward without inhibition, the conference met behind closed doors.

Doughton, who also is chairman of the Ways and Means Committee itself, made no bones about the difficulty of persuading any government division to give up any sources of revenue at this time.

"All jurisdictions are hard up, and all of them would be very reluctant to relinquish any source of funds," he told a reporter.

In separate interviews, Doughton and Rep. Reed (R-N.Y.) ranking republican member of the committee, agreed that the average tax payer couldn't expect any relief even if a new splitup should be agreed upon.

"If the federal government reduced its gasoline tax, or any other tax such as the one on admissions, the states would immediately add the same amount to their levies," Reed predicted.

Rep. Mills (D-Ark) another member of the tax-writing unit, said undoubtedly there is overlapping of taxes in many fields.

"But," he said, "as the states call on the federal government for help on programs they used to finance locally, the federal government necessarily has to move into fields of revenue previously claimed by the states."

Mills said the units most out of luck appear to be the municipal and county governments, which get a stepchild portion of revenue after the federal and state tax systems have taken theirs.

Aged Planter Dies in Pine Bluff

Pine Bluff, March 12 (AP)—Douglas Burke Niven, 87, died at a hospital here yesterday.

Until his retirement 10 years ago, Niven operated a plantation, Niven was a native of Rison, Ark.

Survivors include three sons, general store, cotton gin and sawmill at Tucker, Ark.

Victory Makes Eisenhower Proud

Frankfurt, Germany, March 12 (AP)—Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower said here today he is proud so many New Hampshire voters think he is "fit for the Presidency."

Eisenhower and his Atlantic Pact chief of staff, Gen. Alfred M. Gruenther, arrived in Paris to attend a meeting of NATO military leaders in Bad Nauheim.

Shown results of the New Hampshire presidential primaries in which, at the time, he led Sen. Robert A. Taft some 36,000 votes to 29,000, Eisenhower said.

"Any American who is honored by so many other Americans considering him fit for the Presidency should be proud or, by golly, he is no American."

Britain Hopes to Restore Gold Reserve

London, March 12 (AP) — Britain looked today to a record budget of 44,240,000,000 pounds ($11,872,000,000) to restore world confidence in the pound and slow up the leak in the country's vital gold and dollar reserves.

At the end of February, those reserves totaled less than two billion dollars. The Treasury considers that perilously low.

The government thought, too, that the budget, which cuts income tax and taxes on overtime earnings, would restore workers' incentives to produce more — something Britain must do to survive.

Newsprinters generally hailed the budget, introduced in the House of Commons yesterday by Chancellor of the Exchequer R. A. Butler, as "brave," "hopeful" and "imaginative."

But the pro-Labor Daily Herald attacked it as "bad and unjust" and the Communist Daily Worker called it the "most vicious class budget in British history."

The Socialists decided to attack it during the Commons debate, beginning today, as offering no solution to Britain's export and defense problems. They said it simply redistributes income against the poor and in favor of the middle classes.

But generally Britons, who had been expecting a budget which would mean even harsher austerity, considered it mild.

One of the immediate effects was a stock-market slump. Government bonds and industrial shares nosedived. Brokers had expected it because, paradoxically, they believe the budget has "strength and soundness."

They said the slump was caused by a new excess profits tax and 1 1/2 per cent jump — to 4 per cent — in the interest rate for bank loans which Butler approved to put a tighter rein on all credit.

Another almost immediate effect will be higher prices for such basic foods as bread, fats, cheese, butter, sugar, bacon, eggs and milk. These will come because of a cut of 100 million pounds (448 million dollars) which Butler directed in the 410 million pounds in food subsidies

Students Take Over Radio Station

Russellville, March 12 (AP)—Radio Station KXJR today was turned over to students of Russellville High School — lock, stock and barrel.

Members of the Journalism class took over the duties of announcing, handling script, commercials, introductory fanfare — everything but engineering and bookkeeping.

High school day at KXJR was started three years ago as an idea of a high school journalism student.

Station employees like it because they get the day off and it has been well received by the public, also advertisers.

Reynolds Sentenced to Two Years

Hot Springs, March 12 (AP) — Jim Frank Reynolds, about 40, was sentenced to two years imprisonment for federal liquor law violation here yesterday.

Reynolds' conviction on a state felony charge of assault on rape was upheld by the Arkansas Supreme Court Monday. He was sentenced in Hot Springs (Malvern) Circuit Court to a 3-year term in the Arkansas penitentiary. The case involved a 10-year-old girl.

In Federal Court Reynolds pleaded guilty to three counts of the liquor law violations. Judge John H. Miller sentenced him to two years on each count but specified the terms would concurrent. A fine of $700 also was imposed.

ways of recovering parashutes used in dropping 175 tons of supplies to an isolated radio station.

The officer, Lt. J. S. McKinnon, Route One, Box 59 El Dorado, Ark., "climbed to a mile-high mountain peak near the Korean battle line from a combat cargo plane. At the same time the planes dropped 10 more tons of supplies to the radio outpost.
